ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

- *1. Initial well classification, explanation on page 111 under code descriptions for column 50.
- *2. Final well classification, page 111 under code description for column 51.
- *3. Code for final status of well found on pages 112, 113, 113A, and 113AA.
- *4. Formations and producing zones are coded. These codes are listed by numerical sequence toward the back of the manual. Just before this table is a listing by alphabetical sequence. The formations names which these refer to are listed alongside the code in these tables. On pages 114 and 115 you find that the numeric code refers to geologic system in the first two digits and geologic series in the third digit.
5. Range in years that this particular listing includes. This list is for all years through 1949.

- ① initial well classification, explanation on page 111 under code description for column 50
 ② final well classification, page 111 under code description for column 51
 ③ codes for final status of well found on pages 112, 113, 113A, and 113AA

⑤ This particular listing includes. This particular list is for all years ~~preceding and including~~ through 1949.

!   Salina Basin Study - Project File Creation (part 1)
!   This program is the first of two necessary to create the !   window defining the basin study.  A second routine will

!   read thru the 20,000 series master tape and append the
!   formation data for each record, wherever reported.
